

Property & Construction Services

Specialist expertise, integrated solutions

Specialist expertise, integrated solutions

The construction sector has come through a particularly turbulent time over the last decade. However, it remains central to the strength of the Irish economy.

In recent years the sector has been transformed, with a range of new entrants such as international funds, listed property vehicles and private equity funds challenging the dominance of the traditional property developer within the market.

With the announcement of the National Development Plan Project Ireland 2040 and the influx of new multi-national players into the country, there are significant opportunities for companies looking to invest in property and construction projects.

The following table outlines the estimated demand against forecasted completions of residential units through to 2021. The data highlights the large shortfall in supply which creates opportunities for property companies in the market.

	2018	2019	2021	2020
Estimated Completions	18,000	23,000	27,000	25,000
Estimated Demand	35,000	35,000	33,000	33,000
Shortfall	(17,000)	(12,000)	(6,000)	(8,000)

As with many other industries, the construction sector is not without its challenges:

- A shortage of skilled workers
- Limited access to suitable finance
- A lack of development opportunities
- Increased competition
- Rising land and construction costs
- Increasingly tight project margins

At Crowe, we understand the issues facing the industry. Our team of specialist property and construction experts work closely with a wide range of businesses across the sector, including developers, construction firms, investors, funders, professional firms and the public sector to overcome the challenges and maximise the opportunities they face.

“We have always found Crowe’s in-depth knowledge and experience to be of considerable assistance in maximising the various opportunities we have worked on together. Their problem-solving approach has made them a trusted advisor to our business.”
